

Play! Pokémon 2015-2016 Season Expanded Format Legal Card List

The following is the updated version of the list of all English released cards that are legal for the Expanded Format, 2015-2016 season starting September 1st, 2015 (with Ancient Origins becoming legal on September 2nd). The Expanded Format has a larger card pool than the Standard format. It allows all cards printed since the release of Pokémon Black & White. These sets also contain reprinted cards from older sets, making those older cards also legal in the Expanded Format. A deck must also contain 60 cards, have at least one Pokémon in it, and cannot have more than 4 cards of any single name. Note that "Venusaur", "Venusaur EX", and "M Venusaur EX" are all different names and so up to 4 of each would be allowed in a deck. Basic Energy cards have no name and so are not limited to 4 copies per type.

Note: All cards, including promos, are not legal until 21 days after their release. If you are unsure about the legality of a recently released card, please check with your Tournament Organizer to be sure your deck is legal.

If you are playing a card that has had text significantly modified in later printings, you must have a copy of a card with the most recent printing outside your deck available as a reference for your opponent. In a few cases, if a card has changed dramatically from its originally named version, the old version is not allowed at all (Pokémon Center, for example).

Older cards that will require this reference are marked in the list below with this: Major text change. Requires reference.

Cards that have received an errata (a published official correction or change) will not need a reference as players and judges are expected to be aware of errata. Check the Errata section of the Compendium for a complete list of official errata.

Changes to the List:

- We have revised the format of the Legal Card List and have given it a webpage of its own. This should make it more user friendly and easier to find/link to.
- Basic Energy cards are always legal, no matter what set they are from, so we have discontinued listing them in older sets for space consideration.
- We have removed the rarity reference for the older cards and have instead listed the abbreviation {XXX} for the most recent currently legal set that they are reprinted in.

Updated September 1st, 2015 with Ancient Origins and newly legal cards from older sets that were reprinted.

A listing of all sets and their set symbols may be found in the Researching Tower here:

Deck Building Reminders

You cannot use cards from the World Championship decks. These are prepackaged decks which have extremely powerful and expensive cards based on winning competitive decks available at a very low price. These cards are identified by a silver/grey border on the front, a signature in the lower right hand corner of the picture on the card and a unique card back. None of these cards can be in a deck in a Pokémon Organized Play sanctioned tournament; this includes the basic Energy cards from these decks. They are allowed in league play.

Cards marked "NOT TOURNAMENT LEGAL" in the lower left hand corner of the card cannot be used in Pokémon Organized Play events.

Note that you may not have any Foreign cards, including Japanese and energy cards, in your deck.

If you sleeve your deck, you must sleeve your deck completely with identical sleeves. Note that only clear or solid color sleeves or official Pokemon sleeves with solid colored edges are legal sleeves for Premiere tournaments, with the exception of Prereleases.
